++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Fine and dry north, possibly heavy showers south.

Today:
A warm and sunny day for many, especially for north Wales. However, cloud in the south will build into the afternoon bringing a risk of some heavy and thundery showers. Maximum temperature 28 deg C (82 deg F).

Tonight:
Cloud will continue to build across Wales overnight from the south and west bring further scattered showers, which may be heavy at times. Mild. Minimum temperature 14 deg C (57 deg F).

Thursday:
A rather cloudy start to the day with a few showers and bright or sunny spells. Showers developing more widely for the afternoon and turning heavy and thundery at times. Maximum temperature 21 deg C (70 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Friday unsettled with further showers, potentially heavy, throughout the day. Conditions improving from the south and west later. The weekend drier with sunny spells, but scattered light showers remain possible.
